INDEX.

Alphabets, on, for the use of the blind, 225.
Amber, remarks on the origin of, 172.
Anderson, Reverend John, on the organic remains found in the old red sandstone of Fife, 137.
Animal, quadrumanous, account of the skull of a, found in the tertiary rocks of the sub-Himalayan hills near the Sutlej, 216.
Arago, M. his considerations concerning the manner in which was formed in the Mediterranean, in July 1831, the new island which has successively been called Ferdinandia, Hotham, Graham, Nerita, and Julia, 204.
Arts, useful, on the state of the, 262.
—— proceedings of the Society of, for Scotland, 417.
Atken, George, Esq. his thermometric and barometric tables, &c. 281.

Babbage, Charles, Esq. on the account of the Creation in the first chapter of Genesis, 155.
Barry, Dr Martin, his translation of Alexander von Humboldt's two attempts to ascend Chimborazo, 291.
Beaches, on the elevation of, by tides, 166.
Beings, organized, on the unity of function in, 92.
Beck, A. Van, his remarks on Dr Davy's paper on the supposed property of tin of preserving iron from corrosion in sea-water, 46.
Becquerel, M., on the relation of natural philosophy with chemistry and the natural sciences, 303.
Biot, M. on the stony matters which are employed in China in the time of famine, under the name of Flour of Stone, 208.
Bischoff, Professor, on hot and thermal springs, &c. 330.
Bison, on the occurrence of the European, in the Caucasus, 408.
Blainville, M. de, upon the affinity which the fluids of living organized structures have for matter, 412.
Boué, Dr, on the geology of Turkey, 54.

Bois, M. F. du, on the principal geological phenomena of the Caucasus and the Crimea, 399.

Capocci, M., his remarks on the well-known phenomenon of the erosion of the columns of the temple of Serapis, at Puozzoli, 201.
Carpenter, William, Esq. on unity of function in organized beings, 92.
Caucasus, on the principal geological phenomena of the, &c. 399.
Chimborazo, on two attempts to ascend, 291.
Christison, Dr, his biographical memoir of Dr Turner, 299.
Clay-slate, on the chemical composition of, 254.
Columns, on the erosion of the, of the temple of Serapis, at Puozzoli, 201.
Connell, A. Esq. his analysis of the scales of the fossil gavial of Caen in Normandy, 252.
Cotton, microscopic differences in, lint and hemp, 220.
Creation, on the account of the, in the first chapter of Genesis, 155.
Crimea, on the principal geological phenomena of the, &c. 399.

Dancing madness, notice of Egyptian, 414.
Dinotherium giganteum, on the colossal mammiferous quadruped named, 211.

Eck, Dr W., on the occurrence of glanders in the human subject, 403.

Fire-eating, notice of, 414.
Flood, on the traces of a vast ancient, 59.
Flour of Stone, on the stony matters which are employed in China in the time of famine under the name of, 208.
Fluids, upon the affinity which the, of living organized structures have for water, 412.
Frick, Hermann, on the chemical composition of clay-slate, 254.
Fyfe, Dr, on the use of steam in the economising of fuel, 173.

Gavial, analysis of the scales of the fossil, of Caen in Normandy, 252,
Generation, equivocal, notice of the result of an experimental observation made regarding, 165.
Glover, R. M., Esq., on certain modified forms assumed by the inductive process in different sciences, 115.

Glanders, on the occurrence of, in the human subject, 403.
Göppert, H. R., remarks on the origin of amber, 172—on the condition of fossil plants, and on the process of petrifaction, 75.
Graham Island, on the manner in which, was formed, 204.

Hausmann, Professor, on metallurgical phenomena as illustrative of geology, 326.
Humboldt, Alexander von, his two attempts to ascend Chimborazo, 291.
Leslie, Sir John, biographical memoir of, 1.
Limestone, on the burning of, or the decomposition of lime by heat, 217.

Man, on the possibility of elucidating the history of, by the study of domestic animals, 185.
Meteoric showers, on the, of November 1836 82.
Meyen, J., his comparative remarks on the distribution of vegetation on the greatest heights of the Himalayah and of Upper Peru, 34.

Napier, M. Esq., his biographical memoir of Sir J. Leslie, 1.

Observations, meteorological, made at Heriot Row, Edinburgh, 312.
Obesity in Africa, 417.
Olmsted, Professor D., on the meteoric showers of November 1836, 82.

Patents, list of, granted in Scotland from 14th March 1837 to 12th June 1837, 223; from 12th June to 20th September 1837, 420.
Paterson, Dr, on the fossil organic remains found in the coal formation at Wardie near Newhaven, 146.
Philosophy, on the relations of natural, with chemistry and the natural sciences, 303.
Plants, on the condition of fossil, and on the process of petrifaction, 73.
Poggendorff, M., his remarks on the traces of a vast ancient flood, 72.
Poisoning, African, 417.

Remains, organic, in the old red sandstone of Fife, 137.—in the coal of Wardie, near Newhaven, 146.
Ripple-mark, on, 169.
Rippoldsau, on, and its mineral waters, 171.
Rodizite, on, a new mineral species from Russia, 32.

Sandstone, old red, on the organic remains found in the, of Fife, 137.
Sang, Edward, Esq., his annual report on the state of the useful arts, 262.
Schulze, F., his notice of the result of an experimental observation made regarding equivocal generation, 165.
St Elmo's fire, notice of, seen in Orkney, 220.
St Hilaire, M. Isidore, his remarks on the possibility of elucidating the natural history of man by the study of domestic animals, 185.
Stanley, Rev. Edward, on Rippoldsau and its mineral waters, 171.
Sivatherium, on the, a new fossil ruminant genus found in the tertiary strata in the valley of the Markanda, in the Sivalik branch of the sub-Himalayan mountains, 197.
Steam, on the use of, in the economising of fuel, 173.
Springs, on hot and thermal, &c., 330.

Tables, thermometric and barometric, &c., 281.
Tin, remarks on the supposed property of, of preserving iron from corrosion in sea-water, 46.
Toothach, on, from caries, 413.
Turkey, on the geology of, 54.
Turner, Dr Edward, biographical memoir of, 229.

Vegetation, comparative remarks on the distribution of, on the greatest heights of the Himalayah and Upper Peru, 34.

PRINTED BY NEILL & CO., OLD FISHMARKET, EDINBURGH.